

MARYLAND AND DELAWARE

AFFILIATE AWARD

In its first year, the Maryland and Delaware Affiliate Award for Aspirations in Computing recognized 52 young women for their outstanding achievements and aspirations in computing and technology! The Awardees were honored with an Awards dinner at the University of Maryland Baltimore County (UMBC) campus. After dinner, the Awards committee, UMBC officials, and Ruthe Farmer of NCWIT welcomed Awardees, as well as their parents and teachers. The young women enjoyed an inspiring reflection shared by a fellow 2012 Award Winner about her new experiences as a college student in the field of computer science. Following the Awards ceremony, recipients and their guests attended UMBC's Center for Women in Technology Spring into Leadership event where they were able to network with other technical women from the college and business community and hear a prominent local woman IT professional speak about her experiences.

“This was the first year of the Maryland and Delaware Affiliate Award, and we were inspired by how many young women are interested and involved in computing in our states!”
