2020 NCWIT Collegiate Award
Applications are now open!

Do you know a collegiate woman with an impactful technical project? Do you have a student who has made an amazing contribution to research, class, or a project? Encourage them to apply for the NCWIT Collegiate Award!

WHO
Any graduate or undergraduate student who self-identifies as a woman, genderqueer, or non-binary pursuing a major or minor in a technical field is welcome to apply! Find out more about our eligibility requirements.

WHAT
The NCWIT Collegiate Award, sponsored by Qualcomm and Amazon with additional support from Palo Alto Networks, recognizes the outstanding technical contributions to projects demonstrating a high level of innovation and potential impact. Ideal projects for this award include a significant computing component and can include internship projects, independent work, research projects, or significant class projects.

WHEN
Applications are conducted in two rounds: Preliminary Round and Finalist Round.
→ Preliminary Round applications are now open and due by October 15, 2019.

WHERE
Start your application: https://www.aspirations.org/recognitions/AiCCollegiateAward

WHY
Finalists receive:
• Recognition, swag, and an award certificate.
Award recipients receive:
• A cash prize ($10,000 for Winners and $2,500 for Honorable Mentions)
• A trip to the NCWIT Summit on Women & IT in Detroit, Michigan in May 2020, where the award ceremony will be held in addition to the opportunity to network with sponsors in the industry.

HOW
• Share the opportunity with your networks, community, and students!
• Encourage a collegiate student to apply!

Questions? Contact us at aiccollege@ncwit.org
Blurbs to share:

[longer version]

Revolutionize the Face of Technology - Apply now for the NCWIT Collegiate Award
Each year, the National Center for Women & Information Technology (NCWIT) recognizes undergraduate and graduate students who self-identify as women, genderqueer, or non-binary for the contributions to innovative technical projects through the NCWIT Collegiate Award. Recipients receive engraved awards, public recognition, cash prizes from $2,500-$10,000, and a trip to NCWIT’s Annual Summit on Women & IT. Students can apply online at https://www.aspirations.org/recognitions/AiCColleigateAward no later than 8:00 p.m. MST on October 15, 2019. We cannot wait to see what you are doing to shape the future of tech!

[shorter version]

Accelerate your future in tech - apply for the NCWIT Collegiate Award today! Win recognition and support for your contribution to an innovative technical project. Undergraduate and graduate students who self-identify as women, genderqueer, or non-binary are welcome to apply by October 15, 2019: https://www.aspirations.org/recognitions/AiCColleigateAward.

[Twitter ready]

Are you a #womxnintech with an impactful tech project? @NCWITAIC wants to honor you with the NCWIT Collegiate Award (including cash & prizes) for your technical contribution. Apply by Oct. 15: https://www.aspirations.org/recognitions/AiCColleigateAward.